STRANGER IS SHOT IN RIGHT LEG

Private Night Watchman
Fayard Charged With
Shooting Walter Prescott, Traveling Through.

It appears Walter Prescott, Gordon Nevaly and P. C. Newberry, all pals, traveling by auto from San Francisco on through to Miami Fla., stopped at the Gem Restaurant while in Bay St. Louis Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock. One of the trio was acquainted with an attendant at the restaurant and stopped for a visit.

"I was in the Gem Restaurant," says Prescott to The Echo, "with my traveling pals, when this night watchman stepped in after a little fraternizing, offered us a drink from a bottle he seemed to carry. We all had a drink or two and grew very congenial. Finally, after getting out, having drunk coffee and eaten a sandwich, I said to my pals, 'well, since the auto is done for and we are out of funds, I am going to catch a freight and pull out.'"

"The night watchman thereupon said 'you are going to pull out right this I demurred. I told him I would leave within proper time and there was no necessity of forcing me, especially when I was hurting no one. Soon he got behind a post of the shed over the building and started firing his gun. Three shots were discharged, one of which went through my leg. I asked him to desist, not to kill me. Then I pulled the gun away. We fell to the ground and in the scramble I pounded his head on the sidewalk until he had enough. It was a case of self-preservation."

Dr. Ward was called and dressed the wound, had him removed to the hospital, where he will be for a while. His companions left for Miami yesterday by bus. The auto, done for, was sold to Andrew Carver for $7.00. Sheriff Keller had a warrant served on Jules Fayard charging him with assault and battery with intent to kill.

Prescott is a native of East Liverpool, aged 43, in this country the past twenty-six years. He is of a very moderate turn of mind, with no feeling against the watchman and said he hoped Fayard would be freed from the charges; that he had no intention to appear against him, as he hoped he would be able to leave as soon as possible. He expressed his appreciation of the local attention given him, including the physician and hospital service.

He impresses one as a man of the better type of character. He is agreeable and pleasant to talk to and says he was simply a victim of circumstance.

Schools and Colleges To Observe Washington's Birthday with Programs

By W. F. BOND
February Twenty-second of this year will mark the 200th year since the birth of the man who is said to have been—First in Peace, First in War and First in the Hearts of his Countrymen," during his lifetime. Since his death he is appreciated more than when he lived.

The Nation as a whole is getting ready to celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the birth of George Washington in a manner due the memory of one who rendered such great service at the most critical period in the life of our country.

Sometime during this school year we shall expect every school and college in the state to take part in this manner by giving an appropriate program on the life and work of Washington.

Under our law in Mississippi all of our schools are required to observe "Arbor Day" sometime during the month of February. This year we are asking that all trees be planted in honor of Washington who was a lover of the woods and forests and spent much time as a youth close to the "heart of nature." Booklet giving information about this program for Arbor Day will be sent to the schools within the next week or so.

COMMENT ON SPORTS BY SHERIDAN

RUTH WANTS $80,000
WALKER OR SCHMELING
MICKY'S CHANCES SLIM
DEMPEY IN TRAINING
VINES AND COLLEGE
THE OLYMPIAD

The biennial battle between Babe Ruth and Col. Ruppert to settle the amount of salary that the great slugger will receive is beginning to warm up with the "Babe" positively declaring that there is no reason why he should take a cut in salary and that he expects another two-year contract at $80,000 per annum. Babe thinks that last year was one of the best he ever had and that he is worth the Colonel's money as an attraction at the gate.

The world's heavyweight championship match between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker will be staged at Miami, Florida, on the 26th day of February, according to an announcement made in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and New York will have to wait for some other day to see the German champion in action.

The bout in Florida will be for fifteen rounds, with Schmeling receiving 45 per cent of the net receipts. Thus, the Madison Square Garden organization again demonstrates its hold upon the champion's services and retains an exclusive option on the services of both fighters for another bout in June. Interesting also is the fact that Schmeling's agreement specifies Jack Sharkey as alternate.

The Walker-Schmeling fight may draw a large gate but we do not figure that Mickey has a chance with the German. Schmeling who demonstrated his fighting heart and ability in his bout with Scribbling last July. While Walker won considerable acclaim by fighting a draw with Sharkey, few boxing experts believe that he has anything more than a miracle chance against Schmeling. Nevertheless, the old ballyhoo will be put on "test-am-up" the bout and the public will pay for the fracas.

Meanwhile, Jack Dempsey has concluded a tour of the Northwest and Central states, where he attracted large crowds and fought various opponents with fourteen-ounce gloves. He plans another trip in February to fight "better opponents," with eight or ten ounce mittens. "Steady training me up again," says Dempsey, who declares that he is not only making money, but enjoying the process. The former champion says that he is making pretty fair progress in his comeback and will come through all right unless "some young fellow pops me on the chin some night." Incidentally, his manager says that in 34 fights, he faced 102 opponents and attracted 231,155 paid admissions.

When Ellsworth Vines announced his intentions to discontinue his college work in order to concentrate his attention on spring tennis playing, preliminary to the Davis Cup match, he received a long telegram from Holcombe Ward, chairman of the Davis Cup committee, urging him to stay in school and that tennis should not interfere with paramount educational obligations.

It is interesting to contrast this attitude with that of the Davis Cup committee in 1928, which staged a preliminary training campaign in March of that year, calling several college students from their studies. This brought quick condemnation from college authorities.

For the first time since 1904, the United States will this year stage the quadrennial celebration of the Olympic Games at Los Angeles. At least thirty nations are expected to send representative teams of various sizes and track and field events particularly

ROTARIANS FEAST AT BAY HIGH

Regular Wednesday Meeting

Dr. Evans formally expressed the appreciation of the club to the members of this department of the school and heads; Joseph O. Mauffray told of the trip to Biloxi and inter-city Rotary meeting last week, which was one of the best events of the kind yet held on the Coast; Mrs. C. C. McDonald spoke of school board work and the Rotary chairman, as per pre-arranged program delivered a few remarks and comments at random. The club will observe Washington's bi-centennial celebration Wednesday, with an address by a public speaker on "Washington." An invitation to lunch at the Oriole Tea Room next Wednesday was accepted.

CURRENT COMMENT

CONGRESS is back at work, both branches having convened at noon, on the 5th of January. A sensible idea that if the salaries of federal employees are to be reduced, a good place to begin is with cabinet members and senators. Anti-trust laws, and banking are receiving attention. It is proposed to consolidate government departments, with a view to cutting expenses and avoiding duplication of work. Limitation of the use of radio for advertising is being looked into. Preparations are being made for a definite final vote on emergency financial measures.

The House is considering an amendment of the 1930 tariff law, private bills occupy the usual amount of time, and the general deficiency bill is being gone over. A member has asked for the impeachment of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the ground that he is unlawfully carrying on trade with Germany, of corporations in which he is a stockholder. The minority says that the majority is a little slow in getting its work out of his committee rooms, and the majority responds that House business is moving ahead as well as conditions for which it is responsible will permit. The usual bill providing for pensions has been passed and sent to the Senate.

A HAPPY AND PEACEFUL CANAAN.

Those who deplore the disorder and discomfort of house-cleaning can cast a wistful eye upon England as a happy and peaceful Canaan. Oxford has a building the windows of which are being washed for the first time in six hundred and twenty years.

CONTROL OF DISEASE —TRIUMPH OF SCIENCE.

The Health Department of one of the states of the Union says that, to the time of a small outbreak of recent occurrence, it has had no reported case of small pox since the spring of 1929. There was a time, every town and city, past and present, were populated by other than small pox patients. The control of this disease is one of the triumphs of science, but the Health Department of Iowa directs attention to the fact that it is by no means stamped out, and that with increased facilities for passenger travel, the chances of encountering a small pox hazard have increased. The auto tourist should remember that a trip in his car carries him to places where he may find something beside scenery.

AN HONEST SURVEY OF FOREIGN DEBT SITUATION.

A European visitor says that European people do not take their troubles to heart as much as we do in the United States. This sounds like the first honest survey of the foreign debt situation that has come from the other side of the Atlantic.

It is expected to be of unsurpassed interest. While the United States has managed to make a wonderful record in the Olympics, other nations will have great stars to represent them and the games will attract thousands of spectators. Almost every amateur event in this country this year will be played under the shadow of the Olympic event. Preliminary try-outs will be held in June.

An informal ball will prove popular, it was pointed out, and possibly more enjoyable, and since it is for a deserving cause, the object is to raise as much cash as possible.

The date, this Saturday, January 23. The place: Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

HOME RESTRAINT ADVISE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

One of the Attorney Generals of Kentucky urges home restraint of the youth as a means for combating lawlessness. His advice is sound, and just what the average parent has thought for a long time. The trouble is, that things as they are outside the home, no one is to blame, but the powers short of those of an Attorney General, can accomplish much in the way of restraint.

IMPORTANCE OF SMALL THINGS NOT INTERESTING.

Remarks about the importance of the small things of life are so flat and common that not many are interested in them. A man on trial in an eastern state thinks that they form a very interesting topic. He raised a window to get into a house in which he was caught. He is a burglar, and must serve a life sentence. If the window was open before he arrived, he will merely be put away until the cold weather is over.

SODALITY NEWS.

The first meetings of the Children of Mary for 1932 were held from 2:30 to 3:00 o'clock on Thursday afternoon of the past two Thursdays.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and then the question as to whether the Mass should be recited by the Sodality has been changed from the second Sunday of every month to the second Friday of each month was discussed. The question, however, was finally voted and left to the discussion of our Spiritual Director, Very Rev. Father Gmelch.

The Sodality were urged to do more work for their Sodality this year, than they have done in the past. The different committees were asked to meet oftener so that they might devote more of their time to their Sodality during the year which is just beginning.

At the second meeting it was announced that the recital of the Missa Recitata had the approval of the Spiritual Director and would be recited at the monthly Communion of the Sodality.

The Mission Committee announced that they had at length completed one decade of their Mission Rosary and had collected the grand total of $1.00. In order to increase the Mission funds a fine of two cents—be collected from any Sodalist found chewing gum about the school. The motion met with some opposition but was finally adopted.

BOATS TO FLOODED SECTION

Eight Boats and Half Dozen
Motors Shipped to Sumner
From Bay St. Louis by

Answering the call for boats to assist in the work of feeding flood stricken sufferers in the Mississippi delta high water area, the Bay St. Louis American Legion Post headed by Commander Laurent Dickson has assembled and shipped to Sumner, Miss., eight boats, a half dozen out-board motors and four experienced boatmen.

Receiving the request from State Commander Luther W. Maples after it had been given him by the representatives of the American Red Cross, Post Commander Dickson speedily assembled the boats and motors and with four volunteer seasoned seafaring men loaded them onto freight cars at Gulfport where free transportation on the Illinois Central railroad was obtained.

So far as could be learned no other Coast city had sent boats, but it was understood that "should they still be needed" boats from Gulfport and Biloxi would be dispatched.

Commander Dickson said that, Bay St. Louis was in position to send additional boats, if they were needed and that he was awaiting instructions from the state commander relative to assembling another shipment.

The four volunteer boatmen, accompanying the first contingent of boats to the flooded area were: Wm. Watts, Harold Nott, Edward Nathan and Malcolm Cowan.

This is the second time Bay St. Louis has responded to the call of the flooded district of the delta section.

"Old Ironsides" Is Scheduled to Visit Gulfport March 25

The Constitution, famous American battleship, familiarly known to students of history as "Old Ironsides," now touring American ports is scheduled to be in Gulfport harbor on March 25.

Thousands of people from all sections of Mississippi, particularly school children, who had such a major part in the raising of funds necessary to reconditioning the old battleship are expected to go to Gulfport on this day and view the vessel.

Record crowds flocked to Mobile last week while the Constitution was in port there and a summary of attendance figures disclosed that during the six days at Mobile more than 19,000 people paid the old battleship a visit. This is a larger total than saw the ship during its visit to New York, where the total was slightly more than 102,000, it was said.

More than 25,000 people paid "Old Ironsides" a visit during one day at Mobile, the record for the entire nation. More than 19,000 inspected the vessel on the opening day, this also being the record opening day attendance on its tour thus far.

Bay St. Louis, too, will turn out in large numbers to visit the historical vessel.

Benefit Card Party.

A benefit card party will be given by the Bay St. Louis Unit of the National Council of Catholic Women on Monday, in position at 2 P. M. at St. Joseph's Memorial Hall.

There will be prizes for each table. Tallies 25 cents.

at first to be a well contested game but the Jays have left Orange Grove far behind by a lead of 18 points, the score being 33-13.

Kiln the next of the Jay's opponents was downed by a score of 30-21.

Pineville the next in line fell before the Jays 35-6.

The Dedeaux game played at the College gym Tuesday night proved the most exciting and best game of the four. The Dedeaux girls were two points ahead of the Jays when the whistle blew at the half. The ship worked up a little more rep during the second half and defeated Dedeaux by a score of 29-21.

ON TO BATON ROUGE.

Yes, they're off at last! It's been the talk of the Jays for the past week—this long looked-for trip to Baton Rouge where they will meet the sister team from S. J. A.

Are they thrilled? Well, that would hardly describe their feelings, they are literally aching to start. The veterans amongst them who enjoyed the hospitality of the Red Stickers last year are anxious for another taste of it and the new ones are impatiently awaiting the treat their big sisters say is in store for them.

Friday afternoon the date 22, has been set for their departure. The game will be played in Baton Rouge Saturday night at the Catholic High School gym. The Jays will return Sunday night.

GULFPORT "BUY-AT-HOME" WEEK.

S PONSORED by the Gulfport Chamber of Commerce, that city is putting on this week a "Buy-at-Home" campaign, and to attract attention is giving a show. The Mayor has very properly issued a proclamation calling attention to the home-buying week, which includes that time January 18 to 23.

It is a kind of a reflection on the people of a community when it becomes necessary to put on a ballyhoo show in order to bring a people to that sense of realization that one should patronize the home business people, a duty, in fact, due the community.

Mayor Milner in his proclamation very aptly and correctly says, "A dollar spent in Gulfport not only helps our merchants but indirectly redounds to the benefit of every citizen in the city."

Every good citizen knows this. Possibly do not realize it. But no town or city will ever be able to hold itself together unless people buy at home. It is the places of business that employ the grown boys and girls, young men and women, and older ones, too. Buying at home makes these positions possible. It is the working people who make the money and spend it.

If buying at home is good for Gulfport and other places the same argument holds just as good for the Bay-Waveland section. Buying away from home not only retards our growth but makes for local depression. And this in turn kills value.

Really value would receive a lasting boost if by buying at home we could create more business, increased circulation of money and a better general spirit.

This buying away from home is not only a bad practice but a menace to the future, and even if things are a trifle cheaper elsewhere we pay later not only higher prices but an appalling toll.

It might be well to reflect over this subject and not only practice it ourselves but preach it to others. That is an obligation we not only owe ourselves but to every man, woman and child.

SALES TAX FALSE ECONOMY.

I T IS EVIDENT the Mississippi Legislature at the present session will attempt to pass a State sales tax, one of the formidable nuisances that has ever been foisted on a people. For, after all, a sales tax, supposed to be paid by the manufacturer, in the last analysis, is handed down to the ultimate consumer.

The consumer pays. Every tax is passed on down to the individual and the theory of the rich manufacturer paying this stipend on every article or measure of the goods manufactured, is fallacious. The people of Mississippi are going to suffer more with a sales tax. It is adding to the ad valorem burden. It has been said that "millions of dollars worth of business will be driven out of Mississippi if a general sales tax law is passed. Jobbers in nearby states will profit on the orders which ought to stay at home. Instead of stabilizing the state's financial structure, a general sales tax will come nearer to terrorizing the taxpayers, who, after all are the government. A general sales tax is unsound in every sense. It will impose unfairly upon the poor who should not be made to pay tax for the bread which keeps them alive and the clothes which cover their nakedness. It will drive to other states business which must be kept in Mississippi."

Here in Bay St. Louis and other coast points we experience the condition of people buying cigarettes, cigars and other State-taxed commodities, from near-by state territory where such taxes have been repealed, finding what monumental failure has resulted. Bootlegging gasoline is common, and kindred illustrations might be pointed out.

It is hoped the legislature will not burden the individual with further taxation. We are suffering the burdens of depressions aggravated with a condition of having to pay more taxes than ever.

Baseball fans are now able to tell you why sixteen teams will win the pennant this season.

Personally, we have no opinion of the man who insists that everybody ought to eat spinach.

Let's take it for granted that Bay St. Louis will show marked improvement in 1932; that's the way to get out of the present rut.

GOVERNOR CONNER AT THE HELM.

W I T H proper inaugural ceremony, Mike Sennett Conner became the governor of Mississippi at noon Tuesday and immediately assumed the reigns of a debt-ridden state that has well-nigh become the ridicule of the country.

Gov. Conner enters upon his reign with every hope to get the State back to a stabilized financial basis, to return its educational institutions to that standard of which at one time it was so proud and eschew all factional bitterness and to admit the return of that generous result born of peace and intelligent interpretation and practical application.

We would rather speak not of the dead. Peace to their ashes. But of the new, promising and facing the future roseate with color and rich in possibility.

When smiling Mike Sennett Conner became governor of Mississippi it was the fulfillment of a dream born in his father's mind while his son romped through childhood in the piney woods of Covington county, in that section traversed by the G. & S. I. R. R.

The stocky, young executive was inaugurated as chief magistrate of the commonwealth after three campaigns for the honor and 20 years spent in preparation for the job. And Mississippi needs all his experience for it faces the greatest rehabilitation program since its government collapsed after the war between the states.

Conner has a program of tax reform, highway and educational expansion and improvement. He is determined to balance a $6,000,000 deficit and evolve a tax system to keep the budget straight.

A son of wealth, a lawyer, Yale graduate, hunter and football fan, Mike Conner was reared into the governorship. He was just a boy training and hunting fine bird dogs around Hattiesburg when his father, Oscar W. Conner, fired him with ambition to be governor.

His youth was filled with his dream, cherished and nursed by his father. As an honor student at the University of Mississippi he studied problems of government. His father sent him to Yale of which he is a cum laude graduate. He was elected to the legislature and at 24 was speaker of the house. Theodore Bilbo was governor then and they worked together.

Precedent was broken Tuesday when the new governor and the retiring governor rode in separate automobiles in the inaugural parade because Mississippi's political feud broke the ties that bound them.

The break between Bilbo Mississippi's political rapier, and Conner flared when Conner opposed him for governor eight years ago. Both were defeated, but both came tearing back at each other's throats four years later and Conner was eliminated and Bilbo elected to his second term. The young man never got as far as the second primary in either campaign, and his cause looked hopeless even to his father.

The family fortune had faded and Oscar W. Conner was broken in health when Smiling Mike went back to the forks of the creeks to tell the boys again, "I'm still running for governor." His father died before the 1931 campaign got under way.

Conner has always been personally friendly to The Echo. We congratulate him on the occasion of his triumph and know it will eventually spell victory for the people of Mississippi as well.

About all that an American citizen could ask, we take it, is the same ease in borrowing money that was accorded those foreign bond sellers.

OUR NAVY FALLS BEHIND.

A CONSIDERABLE fight will be waged in Congress this season to decide whether the American Navy will be built up to the strength authorized by the London Treaty by 1936. There can be no doubt whatever that at the present time the United States is much further behind this standard than either Great Britain or Japan.

Those who think the American Navy is demanding too much should realize that since 1922 the United States has built or authorized only thirty-six vessels as against ninety-six by Great Britain and one hundred and twenty-six by Japan. During the last ten years, according to Senator Hale, Republican of Maine, this country has started a little more than one-third as many vessels as England and little more than one-fourth those of Japan.

According to the same Senator, at the expiration of the Treaty the United States will lag behind in every category except capital ships. In aircraft, he says, America will have fifty-nine per cent of treaty allowances as compared to eighty-five per cent for both the British and the Japs. In heavy cruisers we shall have eighty-five per cent as compared to one hundred per cent for both of the other powers and in light cruisers forty-nine per cent as compared to forty-five for Great Britain and one hundred for Japan. In submarines we shall have only fifty-one per cent as against seventy-eight for the British and one hundred for the Japs.

During the time of national depression the building of naval ships would help the problem of unemployment considerably. Construction officers estimate that seventeen dollars out of every twenty in the cost of a war ship goes into labor, about half on labor scattered over the country and used in the production of necessary materials.

There is almost as much money in circulation as in the boom days of 1920; the trouble is that it is stored in vaults to meet demands which excited people make.

THE JAPANESE IDEA.

A PROMINENT Japanese newspaper, discussing the Manchurian situation and the likelihood of interference by other countries, said: "Japan today is a world power, and no nation, however powerful, dare affront her, because the world knows the cost of such audacity."

That is the Japanese idea. They are stealing Manchuria because they feel that no other nation will oppose them. They have ignored the League of Nations and the United States' protest, confident in their security from attack.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

C HICAGO, ILL., January 19.—Well, here we are past the middle of the month already. The first half of the first month of the year is already behind us. And already some are beginning to complain that there's not so much difference in the new year. That's just as well, perhaps, for surely none of us wishes for a year worse than 1931, and that would be different. However, if we may judge by these first few weeks, we can go forward assured that 1932 intends bringing us no more 'bad news' than old 1931 packed with it.

A short time after national prohibition went into effect, if it did, a talented man of letters, Don Marquis, created a character, "The Old Soak," whom he put to work compiling a history of the world. Undaunted by his rather ambitious program, the "historian" preferred his work with the observation that any history must of necessity confine itself chiefly to telling what the people of each period ate, where they ate and when they ate.

Now I know it wasn't with the idea of making any such history that seventy-five S. S. C. lettermen, their friends and their honored guests, Glover and Seafide, Road Bowl heroes, responded to Brother Peter's invitation to enjoy that fine banquet last Sunday. But news is the history of tomorrow. The fact that all these noted folks were so edified by the speaking and pleased with the meal was good news to all the readers of the Echo.

The absence of John T. Meyers' contributions from these columns in recent weeks has been regretted I know. But regretted still more was the absence, from the effects of which we are glad to learn Mr. Meyers has now recovered. It becomes my painful duty now to inform our San Antonio writer that "Gloomy Gus" is no longer here to add to the remarks I make. He left this staff when the depression was so depressing last fall. He has never been in Cuba, but at that is as well known there as Mr. Volstead.

The meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association gets a headline. Me news! At that meeting plans were mapped out, no doubt, and 1932's program decided. No one can tell, especially one living at a distance, all of the fine things that club will do the coming year. Every time these civic minded folks meet something makes plans that is worthy of note. All will be duly recorded in forthcoming issues of the Echo because the P. T. A. is one of the organizations in Bay St. Louis which has a most beneficial influence on the life of the community.

For Sale: Four Jersey Cows. So advertised the owner in the classified department of the Echo. That's news of an opportunity for someone for cows are desirable property! The news of the world is filled with accounts of people who availed themselves of opportunities at the right time. I don't remember the name of the man who made the remark, and I won't swear he made it, but someone (maybe 'twas myself) has said that opportunity taken by the fool who will lead you out of the dungeons of depression and into the light of success and happiness.

Some of the news for 1932 that's been going the rounds isn't entirely relished by everyone. Automobile owners, for instance, would just as soon not be reminded that the new license plates must be purchased for their cars. Considerable is said these days regarding a fairer distribution of the tax burden, but nobody ever asserts that the car owner is escaping his just dues. Still every time additional revenue is needed, legislators cast their hungry eyes on our old battered down flivvers. Well, anyway those new tags came in beautiful colors. It's almost worth the price to show the world what artistic taste the state has, to say nothing of the advantage of escaping the watchful officers of the law who somehow take a positive dislike to our old tags each year.

In Chicago and in other large cities, schools have become front page news these late few weeks. One never knows whether classrooms will be open on the morrow or closed because of lack of funds with which to conduct them. Mothers worry daily as to whether Billy and Sue will have educational advantages another day. A newspaper that has been anything but friendly with the school administration, now leans into the breach with an offer to teach children over the radio station it owns. Wants to get 'em young, charge the enemies of this newspaper. Not at all a pleasant prospect, you'll agree. And you must agree still further that Bay St. Louis, where, from the reports that school is going along so fine, is a very lucky community.

Prospective Obsequies. The Boss (running across boy at football game)—So this is your uncle's funeral, is it, Perkins? Office Boy (with great presence of mind)—Looks like it, sir, he's the referee. Humdrum.

A Visit to "Uncle Bill" Miller's Cabin, At Christine, Texas.

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

T ONIGHT, folks, we're going a-calling on "Uncle Bill" Miller, ex-Texas Ranger, whose hitch in this adventuresome service, alike many of his fellow rangers, is a record of fearless law enforcement marked by countless exploits involving courage in the face of personal dangers.

The glowing outline of San Antonio by night is soon lost to view as we speed southward over a moonlit highway. Our destination is Christine, a picturesque little cattle town, where "Uncle Bill" Miller, now retired from the Texas Ranger force, makes his home.

In due time we arrive here. The bristling breath of a "norther" sweeps over the countryside with relentless fury, and the little town seems deserted. Finally, we locate "Uncle Bill" Miller's house, and knock upon the door. Some time elapses before we hear the welcomed clanking sound of suppressed boots across the floor from within.

"Uncle Bill" Miller, tall, erect, and active despite his advanced years extends a hearty welcome as we enter. There is a noticeable masculine atmosphere about the place. The ex-ranger is, in his words, "making camp here. A hasty glance about the dimly-lit room reveals a stag-handled 45 caliber Colt single action pistol lying in a holster on a table together with some books. A rifle stands against the wall in another corner.

"Come on and warm up by the fire," suggests our host as he leads the way toward the rear of the single room that comprises the dwelling. A pleasant surprise is in store for us. The fireplace is located in the most interesting part of the house. We descend stairs notched from hard clay that lead to a spacious cellar-like room dug some eight feet below the flooring above. It is real cheerful and cozy here. The fireplace is dug into one end of the dry, hard clay wall that surrounds us. A stove pipe is cemented in place, and carries the smoke above the house outside. Smoked meat and other provisions are hung about.

Settled on a wooden box before cheerful flames of this unique fireplace, we have a chance to study our ex-ranger host more closely. He is a typical man of the western outdoors. Years of exposure to the elements have left their trace upon this man of law. His voice is deep and calm as we question and urge "Uncle Bill" Miller to relate some of his personal experiences in the Texas Ranger service.

Occasionally he rolls a cigarette, which he lights by scooping hot coals from the mesquite wood burning in the fireplace. Again, there is a glint of steel in the frank blue eyes of "Uncle Bill" Miller as he recounts a graphic incident wherein the force of law and outlaw met face to face for a show down.

Never is this retired officer of the law boastful as he unfolds deeds of valor in a matter-of-fact tone. To a Texas ranger facing the worse element of criminals and bad men killers is just part of the day's routine we are informed.

Returning to the room above, we are shown a picture of the Texas Ranger force at the time "Uncle Bill" Miller was representing the law. There is no doubt that our host is justly proud of his service with this praiseworthy body of men. We learn that the pistol and rifle that drew our attention upon arrival were part of "Uncle Bill" Miller's equipment during his ranger days.

We are shown and explained the best method for handling the big

Let the Telephone Keep Your Circle Together

When friends have moved to other cities, children are away at school or you are many miles from the folks back home . . . remember you can bring them to you easily and quickly by telephone.

Next best to seeing friends and relatives is talking with them. Even when they are miles away you can telephone them at small cost.

Out-of-town telephoning costs less than most people imagine. For example, the station-to-station day rate to a point 125 miles away is about 75 cents. If you call during the night period, the rate is much lower.

Newspaper Ads Given Credit For Tobacco Profits

Winston-Salem, N. C., Jan. 13.—An increase in net earnings for 1931 over 1930 of more than $2,000,000 was shown in the annual report of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Net earnings for 1931, after deduction of taxes, depreciation and all charges, were reported as $36,396,817, as compared with $34,256,664 in 1930.

The 1931 earnings are equivalent to $3.63 per share on the 10,000,000 shares of common and class B common stock outstanding. Undivided profits were given at $62,233,341, an increase of $6,396,817 over the previous year.

In his letter to the stockholders conveying the figures, S. Clay Williams, president of the corporation, said increased newspaper advertising was one of the principal factors behind the company's business increase during a year of depression.

MOTOR PUBLIC LOOKS TO FORD AS TO MODELS '32.

Eager Expectations Exist in U. S. as to New Models Which He May Reveal

New York, January 21.—(Special)

The Annual Automobile Show, which is in progress at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, is attracting a large number of buyers and the public. The automobile buying public and the idly curious have heard of "flowing lines, graceful contours, latest creations of the coachmaker's art" and other glib phrases that flow so volubly from the lips of the salesmen, but the question that has, from repetition and no satisfactory answer, gained the apex of the famous Riddle of the Sphinx, is: "What is Henry Ford going to do?"

Just a little over four years ago, when the Model A was being cradled in Ford's stronghold at Detroit, this same riddle assumed such gargantuan proportions that it eclipsed matters of national and international moment. Conjecture became a national pastime, and, as events proved, one man's guess was as good as another's.

A man named Henry Ford, in having privately built his conception of the new car, and it was reported that an offer of a million dollars was made for the privilege of a private showing of the Model A for which admission was to be charged, two weeks before its national display.

The early showings of the new car in December, 1927, claimed front page headlines from coast to coast. Newspapers in some of the larger cities issued extras giving details of the car which was to revolutionize engineering in the light car field. Such features as all-steel bodies, aluminum pistons, safety glass, double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and speeds of around 65 miles per hour in safety and comfort were pioneered in the Model A, and the public response was such that Ford, even with his enormous manufacturing facilities, found him self overwhelmed with orders for six months ahead.

What is Henry Ford going to do? Again this question dominates the national consciousness, and the genius of Detroit, accepting the obligations that 20 years of leadership impose, flanked by a corps of the world's finest engineers, preserves the traditional silence that gives promise of some startling innovations in the light car field in 1932.

BUS COMPANY IS HELD LIABLE IN UNUSUAL SUIT

Rock Thrown Through Auto Windshield Damaging Woman's Eye to Cost Teche Company $7,000.

The Mississippi supreme court Monday upheld the award of damages to Mrs. Velmia Bateman, Hancock county, for injuries sustained when a Teche line, incorporated, bus threw a rock through the windshield of the Bateman car. The original $12,000 damages was cut down to $7,000.

Testimony was quoted to show the bus was running at "excessive speed." Mrs. Bateman is represented by the law firm of Gex & Gex of Bay St. Louis, who scored quite a victory, this the only case of its kind ever passed upon by the courts, and which in future will prove a protection to others who are content to travel at the safer and more normal speed.

Bus trying to compete with railroad speed, attempting to sustain similar schedules apparently is none too safe for the public welfare.

We quote from the verdict: "The fact that the suit may be one of first impression in this state, or one of novelty in the specific injury does not take it from the general rules governing liability for breach of duty of one person to another," the ruling, written by Judge George E. Etheridge, declared. "It also sets out in detail some 'rules of the road,' showing the duties of persons using the highways."

"It is well known that cars proceeding at a high rate of speed on gravel roads throw gravel by reason of the force of the car striking the gravel, or by reason of the suction of the car and it is well known that such flying gravel or small rocks are calculated to inflict injury," the ruling read.

"The greater the rate of speed the more violent the hurling of such gravel or rocks becomes. It may be safely assumed that a person traveling the highway assumes the risk incident to travel in a reasonable and lawful manner, but when a person exceeds the speed limit allowed by law, and as a result of such excessive speed injury is inflicted upon another using the highway, such a party is liable for the injury occasioned thereby. Every person driving a motor vehicle upon public highways is under duty to every other person traveling such highway to exercise reasonable care and caution to prevent injury and to operate the motor vehicle in accordance with statutes prescribing the rights and duties of persons upon such highways."

"It is a well known fact," the opinion continues, "that cars may be operated upon some characters of highways without danger from the source of injury here involved, but on a concrete or other smooth surfaced highway, missiles are not usually hurled by the car in its operation, but a person traveling on a gravel highway is bound to know that missiles are liable to be hurled with more or less violence according to the speed and weight of the vehicle, and he is bound to know that such rocks may cause injury to others. Where the violation of a specific statute causes injury and where such injury can reasonably be anticipated or some injury can be anticipated from such violation, liability for the injury accrues."

That a person driving a car may follow this decision is assumed by Judge Etheridge but he adds, "It is immaterial to the consideration of the case to consider that numerous suits may be filed for such violations, and that it may be difficult for the defendant to establish that he was not negligent in the operation of his car along this line. These are considerations to be addressed to the legislative department."

Mrs. Bateman, who testified that as a nurse she earned $100 a month before the injury, was not incapacitated so that she could not follow her former work, the ruling points out, and declares that the $12,000 award was excessive. If she agrees to a remittitur "down to $7,000," the judgment is affirmed; otherwise the verdict will be reversed and remanded for proper assessment of damages by another jury.

Personal and General Notes of Week From Waveland—Vicinity.

V. E. WEBER Box 134 Waveland, Miss.

When this issue of the Echo reaches you, all of our recently elected officers from governor down to constable will have been installed. During recent campaign and in fact all campaigns, the candidates for office told us if elected, what they are going to do for the people; but unfortunately after election they forget the little word for, and our sentence reads—What we are going to do the people. Let us hope our new administration will be an exception to the rule.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."
